About Town

And Country

By TIMOTHEUS T.

THIS AND THAT: What with the roses and lilies, they might be gone by May 30, and the same goes for the iris, which has been blooming for some time now.

From the looks of the buds on the roses and lilies, they might be gone by May 30, and the same goes for the iris, which has been blooming for some time now.

Maybe this cool spell will hold things back enough that there will be things still blooming when the day comes for decorating the resting places of loved ones.

Went down to the S. J. Groves Construction Co. office yesterday to see if they were ready to start paving on the Mitchellville-to-Dix Springs road and learned they weren't.

Saw Harry (Bozie) Bozarth down there and found out he's been working in the Groves office here about two weeks.

I drove on out through Gaskins City, and where Pankey Branch flows under Sloan street noticed that Blue Lake water is still coming into town in large quantities. Everything seemed to be working okay.

And on through Gaskins City I went—out to look over the new golf course at the Kurus country club. It's looking fine. Wet weather has held up much of the playing so far.

A certain fellow up at St. Louis always bragged he would remain a bachelor for the rest of his life, so when a friend of his, who had been out of town for a year or so, returned and discovered that the bachelor was married he asked what happened.

"I married a girl from Stix, Bae and Fuller," the former bachelor said. "She always waited on me and was courteous. I asked her out to lunch one day and one thing led to another; so now we're married."

"Well, now that you're married, what do you think of it all?" the friend asked.

The former bachelor replied: "Sometimes I think I could have done better at Famous."

And this didn't happen here: The funeral of a most disliked woman in a small town was being held. She had had a sharp tongue, spread stories about the neighbors, heckled her husband, yelled at the kids, and had everyone in town mad at her. The funeral was well-attended.

As the minister reached the end of his talk, the skies darkened, clouds rushed out of the southwest and it grew darker and darker. Just as he finished there was a blinding flash of lightning followed by a tremendous clap of thunder which shook the ground.

A voice from the back was heard: "Waal, she GOT there!"

Receives Award Of $10,250 from Industrial Arbitrator

In the case of Velma Gladys Parker, widow of William Claude Parker, versus Harrisburg Ice Company the arbitrator of the Industrial Commission made an award in favor of the widow and her three children in the sum of $10,250.

Mr. Parker died Feb. 21 of injuries received at the plant of the company Feb. 17 when an ammonia compressor exploded.

K. C. Ronalds represented Mrs. Parker. W. C. Ropiequet of St. Louis represented the company.

Miner Is Killed

HERRIN, Ill. — John Lamatina, 9, Freeman Spur, died in a hospital here Monday afternoon of injuries received when coal fell on him at the Freeman shaft mine near here Monday morning. Lamatina's legs, arms and chest were crushed by the coal fall.

City Acts to Protect Children From Traffic

Condition Discussed At Council by Julius Steinmarch

A hazardous condition has developed on Barnett street just east of Feazel and both the Saline County Housing authority and the City of Harrisburg are co-operating to alleviate the problem.

The trouble involves small children from the Dorrisville Housing development darting from between cars parked on the south side of Barnett street into the street, where traffic has been much too fast.

Julius Steinmarch, executive secretary of the housing authority, was present this morning to discuss the situation.

Steinmarch, who said that the 94-unit project is 92 per cent full at present, revealed that there are 130 pre-school-age children living on the development.

The play areas are not big enough, he pointed out, and a hazardous situation has developed. Street a Speedway

With the parking area inside the project inadequate, he said, residents are forced to park on the street and small children, especially boys, are darting out onto Barnett street.

He also said that since Barnett was repaired a year ago it has developed into a speedway, which makes the situation all the more dangerous.

"I would like to see a regulation of traffic on Barnett street in the vicinity of the project," Steinmarch said. "In the project itself we have been able to restrict traffic and we have ordered signs which will keep traffic speeds down to low-gear driving."

"We have had no accidents yet but unless traffic is regulated, we can't escape them," he commented.

The idea of changing the parking over from the south side of the street to the north side had been contemplated previously, but strenuous objections from residents of that side of Barnett cooled off this proposition.

15-Mile Hour Speed Limit

Steinmarch said that with more work inside the project, more cars will be able to get onto the grounds for parking, but not all of them.

He suggested that a low speed limit be placed on Barnett street driving in the development area and the council decided to put a 15-mile-per-hour limit in the zone.

Police Commissioner Henry C. Dempsey said that 15-mile limit signs would be placed up on the street and that police would patrol the area for a couple of weeks.

"If we still have trouble we can put a stop sign on Barnett east of the project to slow down the traffic," he said.

Steinmarch said that residents who disobey traffic regulations inside the project are evicted.

Meeting Thursday By Council for Exceptional Child

Thursday, May 6, at 7:30 p. m. the first meeting of the International Council for Exceptional Children will be held in Harrisburg at the McKinley School gymnasium.

This council's work is bent toward providing the best in education for all exceptional children. Cooperating in making the evening's program a success are teachers from all southern Illinois of children who are receiving special education: orthopedically handicapped, sight-saving, speech correction, E. M. H., and hearing problems.

Miss Genevieve Drennan, consultant in education of exceptional children for those with impaired hearing, State Department of Education, will be the guest speaker. "Education of Exceptional Children in Illinois" will be Miss Drennan's topic.

Burdette Thurman, Harrisburg, is now president of the ICEC local chapter for this area, and will preside at the meeting.

Harrisburg City Schools teachers are urged to attend this meeting, and parents are encouraged to come.

First Baptist Church Begins Sale of Bonds

Sale of $70,000 in bonds to finance purchase and improvement of the First Baptist church educational building, formerly the Saline hotel, is under way.

The bonds, in denominations of $100, $500, and $1,000, bear five per cent interest, mature in the amount of $70,000 yearly for ten years, and are callable before maturity.

Until May 15, they will be offered as of the date of April 1, bearing interest from that date.

The finance committee of the church, of which Dr. L. I. Webb is general chairman, has been divided into four teams for the solicitation.

The teams with the first named as chairman are:

D. H. Hiller, Mrs. Oval Heath, Mrs. Mora Laxton and Mrs. Paul Hays; Bob Burnett, Cecil Pulliam, Chas. Wilson and Guy Lawrence; Hughie Spence, Ed Brantley, Bob Mudge and Dr. L. I. Webb;

Ed Creek, Corby Wickham, Vernard Clayton and Dr. G. R. Johnson.

Lynch Again Asks Franchise For Phone Co.

Local Manager Denies Rumors of Move to Eldorado

Millard Lynch, manager of the Harrisburg exchange of the General Telephone Company of Illinois, appeared before the council again this morning in behalf of his company, which desires the city grant it a franchise.

A few months ago Lynch appeared with the same request and he was back again today as no action has been taken. No action was taken today.

First, he said, he would discount rumors that the exchange headquarters are moving to Eldorado. Probable reason for such a rumor, he said, is that Eldorado is going to be converted to the dial system and to so do the company will construct a building for the equipment.

The Eldorado conversion, he said, is scheduled for December, 1955. About 12 employees will be eliminated there, he added.

Lynch said the company intended to convert to dial here but that it is not on the schedule at present.

The schedule depends on, he said, (a) The outcome of the franchise request;

(b) Economic conditions; (c) Availability of money.

He said the Harrisburg conversion would be one of the largest in the state, that a commercial survey already has been made here.

He declared he could not give any date for work here but that the company has set up a program that includes conversion of all exchanges in six years.

At Harrisburg, he said, a nice building would be constructed, and that there would be no less employees here.

"If anything there would be more," he said. "We might be able to absorb some of those eliminated at Eldorado."

Lynch said that there are 52 persons connected with the Harrisburg exchange and 12 at the Eldorado branch. The two have a yearly payroll of $180,000, he said.

The city has been holding back on a franchise because it has been seeking financial remuneration for giving it. Lynch has shied from the money angle but today said his company could give the city up to $1,163.40 a year in telephone service.

PMW Vacations June 26-July 5

SPRINGFIELD — Members of the Progressive Mine Workers of America will take their annual vacations from June 26 through July 5. PMWA headquarters reported today.

Coal production will cease at PMWA mines. Union President William Crompton said miners will receive vacation payments of $100, and others will get pro rate payments.

Former Local Woman Slain in Marion Tavern

Gene Travelstead, 26, is Fatally Shot; Husband Held

A former Harrisburg woman was shot and killed in a Marion tavern last night and Williamson county authorities said that her estranged husband admitted the shooting.

She is Gene Travelstead, 26, fatally shot at 8:40 last night at Chris' tavern, operated by Chris Caras.

Being held at Marion is 37-year-old Leon Travelstead. Officers at Marion said that Travelstead, who had been married three times, shot his third wife after having spent most of the day yesterday discussing a divorce suit she had filed against him.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Charles Edwards said that Travelstead had admitted the shooting and that a murder warrant undoubtedly would be filed against him today.

Arrested at Home of First Wife

The woman, who had lived in Harrisburg most of her life, is the daughter of George Followell of near this city. Saline county officers stated. Her body was taken to the Frick funeral home in Marion. She was better known here as Gene Sullivan.

Deputy Sheriff Edwards said that five witnesses saw Travelstead pull a .38 calibre revolver from his belt and fire six shots at his wife as she walked away from the bar where they had been sitting. One bullet penetrated her stomach and she died a short time later in a hospital.

Travelstead, officers stated, fled to West Frankfort where he was arrested an hour later at the home of his first wife, by whom he had five children. His first wife told Sheriff Ora Kirby and Deputy Edwards that Travelstead telephoned her yesterday and said, "I intend to put myself clean out of the way tonight."

Filed Divorce Complaint Gene Travelstead filed a complaint in circuit court April 30 seeking to divorce her husband, a truck driver. She had been living in Marion about a year and the couple was married last June, it was stated.

In connection with the divorce complaint Mrs. Travelstead had obtained an injunction to restrain her husband from molesting her.

However, yesterday Travelstead had visited her and discussed the action, reports said, and it was said that he had agreed not to contest the divorce action.

Then they had gone to the tavern last night, where the fatal shooting occurred.

Coroner Sam Simmons has scheduled an inquest for tonight at Marion.

Castle Rules Sale of All Fireworks Except Paper Caps Banned

SPRINGFIELD — Atty. Gen. Latham Castle ruled today that Illinois law prohibits the retail sale of all fireworks which produce "audible or visual effects" except paper caps.

Castle had held April 3 that the law prohibits the sale of sparklers. Tazewell County State's Atty. Ben. F. Railsback later queried whether "all fireworks except paper caps" are banned.

Castle said the only exception to the definition of banned fireworks is paper caps and "the devices in which they are used." But certain uses of fireworks, such as by railroads, are excepted from the ban, Castle noted.

Saline County Soil Conservationists Discuss Goals at Rotary Meeting

"The use of each acre of land according to its capabilities and the treatment of each acre according to its needs is the overall goal of the Soil Conservation program," Tom Morgan, Saline County Soil Conservationist, told Rotarians last night.

Soil conservation men were special guests of the club at its weekly dinner session. Other guests present for the evening's program were honor students from the HTHS and junior high schools.

Mr. Morgan was introduced to the club by Paul Halbersleben. Morgan, in turn presented Alva Cholson, Eldorado, chairman of the board of directors of the Saline County Soil Conservation district.

Mr. Cholson then presented to the club other members of the board. Those present included Ewell Harris, Galatia, Carl Vance, Carrier Mills, Cecil Nelson, Independence township, J. W. Wintzler, Cottage township, Ward Baker and Paul Halbersleben, Harrisburg. Paul Endicott, also of Harrisburg, and secretary-treasurer of the board, was unable to attend.

City to Negotiate with CIPS to Buy Pumps, North Reservoir

Officials of the City of Harrisburg will enter into negotiations with the C. I. P. S. for the purchase of the pumping equipment on the banks of Middle Fork creek and the north reservoir.

Almost two months ago the city was notified by C. I. P. S. officials of the company's intention to abandon the equipment and at Monday night's meeting of the Harrisburg Water Board it was voted to notify the company the city would be interested in discussing the possibility of purchasing the equipment.

When the water plant was sold several years ago the purchase included the south reservoir, purification plant, and distribution system, but C. I. P. S. retained the north reservoir and the pumping equipment on the banks of Middle Fork.

A written agreement provided that if the C. I. P. S. decided to abandon its property at Muddy, the city would be so notified and given first opportunity to purchase the north reservoir and pumping station equipment.

Does Not Bind City

If the city failed to show an interest in the purchase within 60 days after receiving the notice, then the C. I. P. S. would be free to offer the property for sale to any interested buyer.

Last night's action by the water board, approved by the city council in session this morning, merely indicates the city's interest and does not bind the city in any way to make the purchase.

According to the provisions of the contract, representatives of the city and the C. I. P. S. will get together at some future date and attempt to agree on a price. If this fails, then a disinterested person

Pump 14.4 Million Gallons from Blue Lake During April

Water pumped from Blue Lake into the Harrisburg city water system during the month of April totaled 14,497,000 gallons, according to a report made to the Harrisburg Water Board by Amos Doorn, system superintendent, Monday night.

The greatest amount of water pumped any one day during last month was 825,000 gallons.

Cost of the water to the city at a rate of four cents a 1,000 gallons was $579.88.

Stratton Announces Public Welfare Workers To Receive Pay Boost

CHICAGO — Employees of the State Department of Public Welfare will get a one-million-dollar yearly pay boost, Gov. William G. Stratton announced Monday.

The raise will mean an increase of about $2 a week for about 9,000 employees, Stratton said.

Stratton made the announcement at the sixth annual Governor's Mental Health Luncheon here.

Says President Opposes Troop Action Alone

WASHINGTON (UP) — Senator Ralph E. Flanders (R-Vt.) said today after a conference with President Eisenhower that Mr. Eisenhower will oppose any military intervention in Indochina unless it has the full support of the people of that area.

Flanders told reporters that he and the President are in full agreement that the United States can do nothing militarily alone in the Asiatic conflict.

"I was also glad to hear him say that no military action would be taken unless it had the support of the people of the region," Flanders said.

Still Push for United Action

Flanders said he talked over the matter with Mr. Eisenhower in preparation for a speech the senator plans to make soon. He quoted the President as saying that military action is useful and effective only if based on acceptance and desires of the people involved.

Flanders called on Mr. Eisenhower as Secretary of State John Foster Dulles headed home from the Geneva Far Eastern conference to report to the President and to Republican and Democratic leaders in Congress.

Officials said Dulles is determined to push for his "united action" plan to save Southeast Asia from communism, despite recent diplomatic rebuffs.

Officials said Dulles has pressing problems which should be handled at home. Furthermore, they said, he did not want to remain at Geneva where he appeared to lend stature to a meeting with Red China, whose world position this country does not want to enhance.

Three Big Tasks

Russia had a different reason. Radio Moscow declared Monday night that Dulles left Geneva in "defeat" because "his dictatorial policy" resulted in U. S. isolation at the conference.

Officials said Dulles has these three big jobs ahead of him:

1. Set the record straight on just how far the United States is willing to go to keep Southeast Asia from falling under Communist domination.

2. Try to keep the ball rolling for some sort of an Allied defense pact for the Southeast Asian region.

3. Cement relations with Congress on the administration's entire policy toward Asia.

Dulles hoped when he first called for "united action" in Southeast Asia that he could get America's principal allies to join the plan before the Geneva conference opened. He realized that he could not get a formal pact but nevertheless wanted to show the world the Allies were determined not to let the vital area go Communist.

The British and French refused, however, said only that they were willing to explore the matter. They are now waiting to see what the Geneva conference produces.

Wildcat Strike In Third Day at Herrin Plant

HERRIN, Ill. — A "wildcat" strike of members of the United Mine Workers at the Allen Industries plant here was in its third day with no sign of settlement today.

The workers stayed off the job on all shifts starting Friday of last week after the evening shift walked out Wednesday and Thursday in Allen's rug cushion and automotive plant division. Another division of the plant still was operating.

Grover Duty, regional director of UMW Dist. 20, said the strike was unauthorized and the union is making "every effort" to get the workers back on the job. He said the present walkout is over the suspension of two local officers who are charged by the company with leading the walkouts Wednesday and Thursday.

Stahley Holtzman, plant manager, said the union wants the company to return the suspended men to work but the company will not do so until the 200 striking workers go back to their jobs and submit a grievance according to provisions of a new contract recently signed between company and union.

Dewey Chandler, crime lab specialist, is with the mobile unit.

Drive Within 500 Yards of Headquarters

Defenders Cut Down First Waves Of Red Attackers

HANOI, Indochina (UP) — Shouting Red rebels drove to positions less than 500 yards from Brig. Gen. Christian De Castries' underground headquarters today and a second Communist force overran another stronghold on Dien Bien Phu's western flank.

The massive new rebel assaults brought the Communists closer than ever to the nerve center operated by De Castries, hero and commander of the beleaguered French Union bastion in northwest Viet Nam.

French authorities did not pinpoint the Reds' latest success, but it was indicated that the Communists took the western outpost nicknamed "Huguette," the fourth to fall since Saturday.

The fanatical Indochinese Communists hit Dien Bien Phu's western flank after early morning rebel attacks on two eastern strongpoints failed.

Swarm Out of Trenches

A news blackout covered the Red advance on De Castries' nerve center, but officials said the Communists were closer than the 500-yard point reached last Sunday in suicide assaults.

An announcement that the Red Indochinese delegation to the Geneva conference had passed through Moscow apparently triggered the assault.

The Reds swarmed out of the trenches with automatic rifles, bayonets and knives and struck at the eastern outposts of "Dominique" and "Eliane," but French machine gunners cut down the first waves.

Another force then attacked the western flank in a bone-chilling rain that prevented French planes from coming to the aid of Dien Bien Phu's defenders.

French authorities described the assaults as "massive."

The Communists opened their assault after Red artillerymen had saturated Dien Bien Phu's shrunken defenses with heavy mortar fire.

The artillery attack came as the defenders defiantly spurned a demand to surrender.

Relief Column

The French High Command reported also that rebel units were observed regrouping east of Muong Khoua, 35 miles southwest of Dien Bien Phu, apparently in an attempt to prevent a 3,000 man French unit column from coming to the aid of the garrison.

Although the French High Command stated specifically De Crevecoeur's column was not a relief unit, some observers believed it was strong enough to cover De Castries' men should they bolt to the east from the garrison.

Cpl. Dickenson Is Convicted

WASHINGTON — A military tribunal today convicted Cpl. Edward S. Dickenson of charges he collaborated with his Communist captors in Korea and informed on his fellow prisoners.

Miss Jean Garrison to Graduate May 20 from School of Nursing

★ EDSON IN WASHINGTON ★

Talks On Indochina Seen Hinging on French Politics

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—What comes out of the Geneva conference on peace in Indochina is now analyzed in Washington as being more dependent on how France holds up on the home front than on the battle front.

One of the great problems for the American and British delegations at Geneva is to keep the French spirit bucked up. The principal argument they have to offer is that even the loss of Dien Bien Phu would not mean the loss of the war against the Communists.

This is a battle for an isolated crossroads in a river valley. It is not even a full-division operation, on either side. Under pre-air-age warfare, Dien Bien Phu would have fallen long ago. It has been kept going only by air supply.

AS ADMIRAL Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, has pointed out, the military loss of Dien Bien Phu would involve only a small percentage of French Union forces.

Fortunately, there is believed to be less indication that the French Union and Viet Nameese troops in Indo-China are ready to collapse than the bulletins from Geneva would seem to indicate. The troops will apparently fight on until the French government home fronts in Paris and Geneva give way behind them.

France's great trouble in making up its mind about Indochina is regarded as a fear of the effect any settlement in that part of the world will have on the French position in North Africa. If France could pull out of Indochina without losing Morocco and Tunisia, it would probably do so.

One stabilizing ray of hope for southeast Asia is seen in the last-minute French grant of full independence to the Indochinese native states of Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia. It may have come too late to do any good. But French promises to make no settlement with the Communists that is not acceptable to the native Indochinese governments is considered a good sign.

EMPEROR BAO DAI has so far declared that he will make no settlement that will partition his country. This should effectively stop any proposals to cut Indo-China in two at the 16th parallel, giving the northern half with its rich rice bowl to the Communists.

Almost any of the suggested settlements must be considered superior to the idea of splitting Indochina, as Korea was split. Among other proposals to be considered at Geneva are these:

1. Indian Prime Minister Nehru's plea of last February for an unconditional cease-fire, with both sides in Indochina retaining their present military positions. "Once you start arguing about conditions," said Nehru, "there is no end."

French Premier Joseph Laniel agreed to accept such a cease-fire in March, provided there was adequate guarantee of safety for French troops. He later specified that the Communists must evacuate

the Tonkin Delta, Laos and Cambodia and lay down arms in south Viet Nam.

2. The French and Russian proposals for immediately convening at Geneva a conference of up to 15 powers to negotiate a southeast Asian settlement. This has been given considerable support by President Eisenhower's speech to the U. S. Chamber of Commerce. He expressed hope for peaceful settlement.

3. THE CAMBODIAN independent appeal to the United Nations to stop Communist aggression is given no chance. None of the major powers is willing to back it.
Russia would veto it in the Security Council.

4. As a long-shot possibility to build up a Pacific alliance to resist communism, we must not overlook the Indonesian proposal for an all-Asian conference to be held in Jakarta in August.

This would bring in India, Pakistan, Burma and the Arab countries in the Middle East. It would probably leave out the British, French and Dutch, as colonial powers.

It would also probably leave out the present governments of Viet Nam, Cambodia and Laos. They are considered French puppets and not true representatives of independent nationalist aspirations in Indochina.

The main point stressed by the south Asia countries is that there can be no effective resistance to communism in this area unless it is based on true nationalism, free from all western domination.

Scheduled Airlines Establish Safety Mark

WASHINGTON—Planes, official publication of Aircraft Industries Association, reports that for the second consecutive year America's scheduled airlines established all-time safety records on domestic and foreign routes.

Flying giant American-built air transports, the airlines carried nearly 31,000,000 passengers more than 18,000,000 passenger-miles in 1953 with a fatality rate of 0.48 per 100,000,000 passenger-miles. This compares with a rate of approximately 2.80 per 100,000,000 passenger-miles for automobiles and taxis, according to Planes.

The publication also reported that the Military Air Transport Service airlifted more than 500,000 passengers, including patients, during the year without a single fatality. In addition, MATS carried 164,000,000 pounds of high-priority cargo and mail.

PLASTIC DAM
Flexible irrigation dams made of plastic are lightweight and easy to handle. These are laid in ditches and over banks for about four feet, states Capper's Farmer. The weight of water on apron holds the barrier in place. The plastic sheet has a loop through which a pole can be inserted to hold up the end across the ditch.

Two 'Husbands' Try to Lure Blonde Wife--One With Hotel, Other a Gas Well

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (AP)—A pretty blonde smiled sweetly—but made no commitment—as each of her two "husbands" tried to lure her today with promises.

One offered her a half-interest in a hotel. The other promised her a gas well.

A judge tried to determine whether she is married to either of the suors—and, if so, which one.

Both men accompanied Mrs.
Peggy Lou Wolfe Hirsch, 26, to Superior Court Monday where she asked Judge Philbrick McCoy to grant her a California divorce decree from Lynn Wolfe, 45, wealthy Hollywood hotel owner from whom she obtained a Mexican divorce in 1952.

While Wolfe held the shapely blonde's right hand in the courtroom, the third member of the marital triangle, William Hirsch, 47, clasped the left hand.

She married Hirsch, a Texas natural gas operator, at Las Vegas, Nev., Oct. 4, 1952. Wolfe was there, too, as best man.

Wolfe later married actress Beverly Marsh, but that marriage also ended in a Mexican divorce. When Miss Marsh attempted to obtain alimony, however, the validity of the Mexican divorce was challenged and, according to attorneys, failed to hold up.

"So, if the second divorce isn't any good, the first one isn't either, and I'm still married to Peggy Lou," Wolfe explained.

"That makes her a bigamist," he smiled affectionately at the blonde model.

"That makes him a bigamist, too," she smiled back.

"If Peggy Lou divorces me, then we're legally married, and my second marriage isn't legal and can be annulled," continued Wolfe, still smiling. "While we're waiting for the final decree—a whole year—I can try to win her back."

Hirsch then squeezed Peggy Lou's hand tenderly and announced —with a smile—he had no intentions of giving her up.

Both "husbands" kissed their "wife" on the cheek for photographers and each revealed what he would offer her if she would choose him for a mate.

"If she comes back to me, she'll get a half interest in the hotel," said Wolfe.

"If Peggy Lou sticks with me, I'll give her a gas well," said
Hirsch.

Peggy Lou just smiled and held hands with her two admirers.

Miss Barbara DeNeal, Former Harrisburg Girl, Marries

Soft organ music and candlelight, with floral arrangements of spring blossoms, formed the background for a charming home wedding Tuesday evening, April 6, when Miss Barbara DeNeal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence DeNeal, became the bride of Clyde E. Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Peterson, all of Corvallis, Ore. The DeNeals, former residents of Harrisburg, moved to Corvallis ten years ago. The bride's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Massey, RFD 3, Eldorado.

The exchange of vows took place in the presence of a few friends and relatives assembled at the home of the bride's parents in Cedarhurst. Elder N. C. Earnstein of Albany, performed the ceremony, and Mrs. Gladys McLaughlin presided at the organ. Elder John D. Trude sang "O Perfect Love," and while the couple knelt on a white satin pillow, "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a traditional wedding gown fashioned of heavy white satin and chantilly lace and a chapel-length train. The fitted bodice was lace over satin and styled with full-length sleeves and collared neckline.

Sprigs of orange blossoms secured her finger-tip veil of illusion and she carried a bouquet of white double carnations centered with a large orchid and tied with white satin ribbon.

Miss Juanita Kalar of Walla Walla, Wash., and roommate to the bride during nurses' training, served as maid-of-honor. She wore a lavender gown of tulle and nylon net. Her headband was of pleated white illusion and lavender ribbon and she carried a bouquet of white carnations tied with a yellow ribbon.

Miss Judy DeNeal, sister of the bride, was a bridesmaid and wore a yellow gown styled like that of the maid-of-honor. Her bouquet also was of white carnations and was tied with a lavender ribbon.

Serving as best man was Keith Babcock of Portland, Ore., former college roommate of the bridegroom. Harold Roberts, another college friend and likewise of Portland, Oregon, also attended the bridegroom.

The mother of the bride wore a navy and light blue linen suit with navy and white accessories. Her corsage was of yellow carnations. The mother of the bridegroom wore a deep violet suit of gabardine and had pink and black accessories. Her corsage was also of yellow carnations.

The beautifully appointed refreshment table was covered with a lace cloth and decorated with floral arrangement of yellow daffodils and lavender and white delphinium, which employed the three colors used in gowns and decorations. The three-tiered wedding cake was adorned with rosebuds and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom.

The couple left immediately on a brief wedding trip. For traveling the bride wore a suit of navy blue trimmed in white, and worn with white accessories and an orchid corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Laurewood academy. She attended Oregon State college and Pacific Union college. Recently she completed the first half of her junior year in nurses' training at the College of Medical Evangelists Nursing school near Los Angeles, Calif.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Three Lakes high school, Wisconsin, and of Walla Walla college. He also did graduate work at the University of Oregon before his induction into the army last June.

Until recently he has been stationed at Letterman hospital in San Francisco, but is scheduled for overseas appointment very shortly. It is expected that he will be sent to Hawaii where the bride plans to join him in a few weeks.

Mrs. Wilma Hay Hostess To Ledford Vota Vita Class

The Vota Vita class of the Ledford Baptist church met April 27 for its social at the home of Mrs. Wilma Hay with six members present.

The meeting was opened with the singing of "What a Friend We Have in Jesus" and with prayer by Marie Price.

The devotion, given by Mrs. Blanche Caltrida, was taken from 1 Kings 12:25, 12:26, which tells the story of the two golden calves. A solo, "Take My Life and Let It Be," was then sung by Marie Price. Ellen Butler dismissed the group with prayer.

Refreshments were served to the following: Mrs. Ann McGill, Mrs. Ellen Butler, Mrs. Blanche Caltrida, Mrs. Freda Jarrell, Mrs. Marie Price, Mrs. Reba Hertlein and daughter, visitors, and the hostess, Wilma Hay, and daughter, Patty.

Members of Chapter Z, P. E. O., Hear Reports on Convention

Mrs. John R. Jackson was hostess to Chapter Z, P. E. O., Friday afternoon, April 30.

The president, Mrs. Lloyd L. Parker, greeted Mrs. T. L. Ozment III, a member who has recently returned from Germany. Mrs. Ozment and her husband, Lt. Col. Ozment, and their children will leave soon to make their home in Tulsa, Okla.

Mrs. Parker, official delegate to the State convention held recently at the Edgewater Beach hotel in Chicago, gave an interesting and enlightening report to the chapter on the proceedings of the convention.

Mrs. Carl Rude, Mrs. C. E. Taylor, Mrs. K. C. Capel, Mrs. B. G. Funkhouser and Mrs. E. M. Travestead also attended the convention and reported on various phases of it to the local chapter.

Mrs. C. E. Combe presented a history of Chapter Z at the convention and was also honored as a past state president.

Outstanding speakers included President Clark K. Kuebler of Ripon college, Ripon, Wis., Prof. Arthur C. Walton, Knoxville college, Galesburg and State Representative Mrs. Thomas K. Rinaker, a past state president of P. E. O.

On Friday O. D. Corbridge, Illinois State chairman of the B. I. L. Cottey College Chapel Fund, announced the outcome of a $250,000 drive conducted by the husbands of P. E. O. members to finance a chapel on the Cottey campus at Nevada, Mo. He reported the drive had gone over the top and that Illinois had far exceeded its quota.

Cottey is a Junior college, owned and operated by P. E. O. Dr. B. E. Montgomery was chairman of the local fund raising campaign.

The hostess served refreshments at the close of the meeting at which time the president lighted a golden, star-shaped candle, symbol of the Sisterhood, received as a place card favor at the convention banquet.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. K. C. Capel.

Ledford Baptist Ladies' Adult Class Has Social

The Ladies' Adult Sunday school class of the Ledford Baptist church met with Mrs. Ada Thompson for the regular social. The meeting opened with singing by the group and with prayer by Ethel Lynch. A report on the flower fund was given by Nell Hancock, and the minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

Ten members and two visitors were present. The meeting was closed with prayer by Mrs. Sybil Roark. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Hallie Waltz.

Those present besides ones already mentioned were Agnes King, Nancy Yates, Verba Elam, Gertrude Butler, Virginia Yates, and Sandra Douglass.

Miss Eva Hughes, who makes her home at the Charlie Gustin home, 502 South Main street, was visited over the week end by her brother, Charles Hughes of Evansville.

Recess Geneva Conference For Two Days

GENEVA (UP)—The Geneva Far Eastern conference recessed today for two days, giving the Western bloc a chance to iron out disagreements and come up with a unified policy on both Indochina and Korea.

Up to now the Western allies have been unable to agree on acceptable plans for solving either of the two major problems on the conference agenda.

On the issue of Korea, the conference was hung up on the effort of the United States and its U. N. allies in Korea to win from President Syngman Rhee's South Korean government agreement to a compromise plan calling for all-Korean elections under United Nations supervision.

This plan — almost certain to be turned down by the Communist bloc — was being drafted as a possible first step toward reunifying the divided peninsula.

On Indochina, the Western allies searched vainly for a peace formula that would not involve partition or surrender to the Communists.

The decision to recess for two days was taken after the conference had heard a grim warning from Canada that failure to agree in Geneva might plunge the whole world into a new conflict that "would engulf and destroy us all."

The conference also heard an appeal from the Netherlands to end futile name-calling and speeches and get down to real negotiating.

Efforts to Speed Army-McCarthy Hearing Collapse

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy offered today to take the witness chair immediately in the investigation of his row with the Army.

Democratic members of the investigating subcommittee balked, however, and efforts to speed up the hearings collapsed for the time being.

A proposal to stop the questioning of Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens was broached by Republican members of the subcommittee. They have been under administration pressure to cut short the televised spectacle, now in its ninth day.

This proposal called for reducing the number of "principals" in the investigation from six to two. The Democrats refused to go along.

Proposal by Welch

As the subcommittee wrangled publicly about who was responsible for the delay—a haggling which delayed testimony for more than an hour—these high points were developed:

1. Army special counsel Joseph N. Welch reiterated his belief that if McCarthy were called as the next witness after Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens, the hearings could be ended with testimony by two more witnesses "at most."

Welch identified these as Francis P. Carr, staff director of McCarthy's investigating subcommittee, and Roy M. Cohn, the subcommittee chief counsel. Both are principals against whom the Army brought charges, along with McCarthy.

2. McCarthy offered to have H. Struve Hensel, assistant defense secretary, removed as one of the principals on the Army side of the row—but only on the understanding that Hensel would be subject to a later investigation.

3. Frederick V. P. Bryan, Hensel's attorney, said his client would agree to being taken out of the case only if McCarthy admitted he was included in "error" in the first place. McCarthy snapped he was "not in error."

4. McCarthy blamed the Army for the failure to arrive at a formula to shorten the hearings. "It takes relief to business and individuals," President Eisenhower has said, the reforms are needed to remove "inefficiencies" in present laws and to simulate business investment.

Chairman Eugene D. Millikin (R-Colo.) said the Finance Committee will work in strict secrecy, announcing none of its decisions on sections of the bill until it completes the entire measure in about two weeks.

Other late news: Massey: The House and Senate met in joint session to honor Governor General Vincent Massey of Canada, here on a two-day state visit. Massey in a speech assured the lawmakers they can count on their Canadian neighbors as "faithful friends and comrades."

5. Acting Chairman Karl E. Mundt (R-S. D.) said the committee tried in vain to find means for shortening the hearings and would proceed as in the past "to the end of the furrow."

Senate Begins Work on Tax Reform Bill

The Senate Finance Committee went to work today on the administration's tax reform bill.

The measure, already approved by the House, would give upwards of one billion dollars of selective tax relief to business and individuals. President Eisenhower has said the reforms are needed to remove "inefficiencies" in present laws and to simulate business investment.

Chairman Eugene D. Millikin (R-Colo.) said the Finance Committee will work in strict secrecy, announcing none of its decisions on sections of the bill until it completes the entire measure in about two weeks.

Other late news: Massey: The House and Senate met in joint session to honor Governor General Vincent Massey of Canada, here on a two-day state visit. Massey in a speech assured the lawmakers they can count on their Canadian neighbors as "faithful friends and comrades."

Missiles: Dr. Hugh L. Dryden, director of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, told a Senate armed services subcommittee that new rocket fuels now being studied in U. S. laboratories offers "great promise."

Farm: The National Grange and the National Cotton Council told the House Agriculture Committee they strongly favor an Agriculture department plan for selling more surplus American farm products overseas. Under the plan, the foreign buyers would pay in their own currencies — not in hard-to-get U. S. dollars.

India: George V. Allen, U. S. ambassador to India, urged the House Foreign Affairs Committee to approve a 10-million-dollar program of U. S. aid for India, despite that country's frequent opposition to American foreign policy.

Taft-Hartley: Chairman H. Alexander Smith of the Senate Labor Committee said moves to write an anti-discrimination clause into the Taft-Hartley law are a threat to the administration bill to revamp the act.

HOMES BUILT by Mr. and Mrs. James Hicks at Liberty on their own acreage as part of their own housing project. (Photos by Alta Porter)

James Hicks, Retired Teacher, Keeps Busy Building Own Housing Project at Liberty

By ALTA PORTER

James Hicks, who was 61 on Friday, April 30, a retired school teacher, is about the busiest unemployed educator that ever lived.

From him those men past 50, who will take the time from talking about lack of work for older people, may learn a lot.

And fun! Mr. Hicks and his wife, Phoebe, are having more fun than the writer could begin to tell you about.

Six years ago they started a slum clearance and housing project. No government subsidy, nor bank loans and no down payments for the purchasers or tenants.

On their six acre tract of land on Liberty road, Rt. 2, Harrisburg, they started building houses, intended for young couples who wanted to own their homes and were in the hard part of the book as far as making big down payments was concerned.

As the wave of building new ranch type homes swept over this area, Mr. Hicks got on the band wagon. "The only difference was that he bought up the houses being torn down and rebuilt them into modern homes of the rural cottage type, with a garage attached to the house."

For instance, he bought the old R. E. Ferrell store building on Eagle Creek, which was also the I. O. O. F. hall and the Woodman hall there. He and Mrs. Hicks went down to Eagle and camped while he tore the building down. As he removed each board, she pulled out the nails and tied the lumber into bundles for transportation to Liberty.

When Bluford Hetherington started remodeling the stately old J. B. Hetherington house on West Poplar street, Mr. Hicks bought the windows and the round porch posts which were removed.

When Dr. D. A. Lehman started to build his new house, he sold the old house which had been the home of the late Mrs. Mary Mifflin, to Mr. Hicks for $75. If he would remove it quickly, Dr. Lehman stressed the fact that the silks were cedar in making the bargain with Mr. Hicks. They turned out to be black walnut and Mr. Hicks sold them back to Dr. Lehman for half of the price, he (Hicks) had paid for the whole house!

Galatia High School Notes

Students at Galatia high school will present the "Louisiana Minstrel" tonight in the gymnasium. Curtain time is 7:30 o'clock. Proceeds from the event will go to the band uniform fund.

Members of the cast are: Davey Joe Knight, as Angus; Ronald Williams, as Blair; Freddie Edwards as Craig; Scotty Abney, as Elder; Glenn, as Claudia; Interlocutor, Sam Davis, as Dawes; Charles B. Walker, as Finch. The girls chorus will also participate in the program. Mrs. Ed Creek Jr. is directing the production.

The Alumni association recently donated $111 to the band uniform fund. It is the hope of the music department that enough money will have been raised by fall to purchase the new uniforms.

The Galatia FHA will hold its annual mother and daughter banquet in the school cafeteria tomorrow evening.

Saturday, May 15, is the date of the annual Junior-Senior banquet and dance. The HTS Cannies will play for the dance.

Mr. and Mrs. James Hicks buildings and from two barns that had to be moved when the Sahara Coal Co. cleared land adjacent to Liberty for strip mining, were used by Mr. Hicks in the erection of four very nice looking rural houses and into their construction went some fine old lumber, mostly oak and walnut. The fifth house was moved from the Cain school district, also to make room for strip mining. Mr. Hicks does all of the wiring and plumbing at his housing project.

If anyone wants to sell a second hand lake or river that could be moved out to the Hicks acreage, Mr. and Mrs. Hicks might be interested for they recently put up a cabin adjacent to their house which is their "happy memories lodge." A small neighbor inquired when they built the cabin, "Are you going to buy a lake and bring it out here?"

In the cabin is a fireplace built with bricks salvaged from the Presbyterian church after the fire of January 1953. Mr. and Mrs. Hicks are members of the Presbyterian church in which he is a deacon. The mantel came from the home of Dr. L. L. Webb, when the Webbs remodelled their house, and the grate for the fireplace came from the Gibbons funeral home.

One approaches the cabin thru a rose arbor, the tall round columns of which were formerly porch posts at the old Hetherington house.

The front door of the cabin is the portal through which three generations of Illinois "greats" and "near greats" have walked as guests of the late Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Horning, pioneer hotel owners in Harrisburg. It was removed when the Turner-Farrar company began remodeling the hotel.

The floor of this cabin also has a Harrisburg connection. It is made of slabs of concrete sidewalk, removed during the improvement of South Land street.

In a nearby workshop Mr. Hicks has stacks of oak door and window facings discarded when the wealthy district at Grosse Pointe, Mich., built a new school house. Mr. Hicks' only son, Vernon, who was principal there is now on the Michigan university faculty in the department of education, and he obtained the lumber at nominal cost for him. Vernon is now Dr. Vernon Hicks and was a panelist on education at the 1953 meeting of the National Education association. His wife is the former Jean Rose Felts, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Loren Felts of Harrisburg. They have three children.

Mr. and Mrs. Hicks' daughter, Ruby, wife of Harry Bailey, has become noted at Vincennes, Ind., as a photographer of children. The Baileys have two children.

The children were not present for the birthday dinner for Mr. Hicks Friday, but his two sisters, Mrs. Rosa Ledbetter, 75, 704 North Cherry, and Mrs. Cinda Baldwin, 69, 600 South Main street, were present. The dinner was held in the cabin, which is equipped with running water from wells on the property.

Mr. and Mrs. Hicks have had a robust enjoyment out of their slum clearance and housing project. Their ideas of improvement have backfired only once, and that was on the matter of sanitation.

Last spring they dug an extra well to irrigate their garden, but the drought continued. The well didn't fill and the garden died. Thinking that water for their sanitary toilets might become depleted, they built an outdoor toilet and used the new well for a cesspool, thus saving their well digging project from being a total loss. The outdoor toilet building was acquired on one of their slum clearance deals.

Mr. and Mrs. Hicks are examples of enterprise, ingenuity and paternal interest in their little community of young home buyers. In all of their dealings only $200 has been exchanged in down payments and that was not required.

They admit that the monetary return on their building investments has been satisfactory enough to enable them to feel secure and to surround themselves with a fine group of young people. They enjoy television for their leisure, and one old house had in it a pair of crutches which they are saving until the time when they get old and really retired.

Tuesday Club Meets With Mrs. Ira Adams

Mrs. Ira Adams was hostess April 27, to the Equality Tuesday club. The meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. J. A. Womac. The lesson, "Bells," which was a most interesting history of the origin, the significance and the romance of the bells of the world, was given by Mrs. Ida B. Coyle. Special attention was given to the Liberty Bell.

Mrs. M. Q. Maas read a beautiful poem, "Bells," which she had written for the occasion. Each member and guest was presented a little brass bell at the door and other bells, some from other countries, were displayed later.

Mrs. Adams, assisted by her daughter, Sue, served a delightful tray supper including molded salad, tea sandwiches and a dessert of strawberry shortcake. The home was lovely with spring flowers and the spring theme was furthered by tiny individual potted plants placed on the serving trays. Another special attraction was the Hammond organ, and both Miss Stuart and Mrs. Maas played several enjoyable numbers for the meeting.

Members present were Mesdames B. D. Barnett, T. J. Brewner, Ida B. Coyle, M. Q. Maas, J. B. Reed, David Sanks, F. A. Smith, Walter Sutton, J. A. Womac, W. R. Warner, Chas. Yost, and Ira Adams. Guests present were Mesdames Bob Barnett, J. K. Gannett, Dorsey McLain, Ada McLain, A. L. Willis, Daisy Hirtman and Sue Stuart.

Mr. and Mrs. James B. Reed motored to Chicago over the Easter week end to visit their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Karsch, who have but recently moved to their new home. Mrs. Reed remained to visit for the rest of the week, arriving home Monday, tired, but reporting a wonderful time.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy J. McDaniel of Carbondale, Route 3, visited their daughter and family, Rev. and Mrs. W. R. Warner Saturday night.

Those from Equality attending the Older Adults conference, which was held April 29 at Eldorado, were Mrs. Holland, Mrs. L. H. Hale, Mrs. Pete Baker, Mrs. J. H. Karber and Rev. Warner.

Mrs. George C. Guard was hostess to the members of the Board of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Harrisburg District Thursday, April 22. The day was spent both at pleasure and business with the ladies taking time off from their work concerning the end of the fiscal year to enjoy a delightful luncheon planned around baked ham. Mrs. Guard, who is the retiring president of the Harrisburg District W. S. C. S., had her newly redecorated home quite festive with spring flowers but the center of attention seemed to be her pink dogwood, which was in full bloom in the yard. Those present were: Mesdames Wiley Blue, Marion, J. C. Gasaway, J. W. Schwartz and C. E. Wing of Harrisburg, Marvin Carlton, McLeansboro, George Johnson of West Frankfort, R. W. Kemper of Grayville, A. H. Walters of Mt. Vernon, T. N. Marlin of Mt. Vernon, Ira Adams, W. R. Warner and George Guard of Equality.

Demos Gathering For 'Happy Days Are Here' Rally

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON — Democratic Party leaders from all over are assembling here for a "happy-days-are-here-again" rally to launch the 1954 general election campaign.

The two-day pow wow begins Wednesday and ends Thursday night with one of those $100-a-plate dinners which is expected to net about $150,000 less the cost of the chickens and peas, pistachio and coffee actually consumed.

That sum would dispose of the current $100,000 deficit but for the fact that the party will pour it into the campaign to elect a Democratic Congress next November.

The assembling party leaders are as happy and confident as Dodge fans on the first day of a World Series. The week of their meeting, chosen by chance, finds the Eisenhower administration and the Republican party in the greatest difficulty at home and abroad since the GOP took over in 1953.

The two-day affair is billed as a meeting of the Democratic National Committee, but it is more than that. Former President Truman, Adlai E. Stevenson, municipal and state officials, senators and representatives are booked for the program or the audience.

To Receive Convention Bids

Stevenson, Gov. Dennis J. Roberts of Rhode Island, and Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson and House Democratic Leader Sam Rayburn, both of Texas, will speak Thursday night. Mr. Truman is likely to be heard from, too.

The National Committee will receive preliminary bids from cities interested in hosting the 1956 Democratic national convention. The Democratic Advisory Council will have a breakfast meeting Thursday morning.

The principal business of the two-day gathering, other than to raise political funds, will be a bruising discussion of all phases of the operations of President Eisenhower and his congressional Republicans.

Panel discussion has been arranged to pinpoint and publicize the administration's problems in foreign and domestic relations, with special attention to farm legislation.

STEVENSON CANCELS ALL ENGAGEMENTS

CHICAGO (UP)—Adlai Stevenson, recuperating from a kidney operation, has canceled all engagements for the next three weeks on advice of his doctors, it was announced today.

William McCormick Blair Jr., Stevenson's former executive assistant, said that Stevenson will not attend a Democratic meeting in Washington Wednesday.

"It's taking him a little longer than anticipated to regain his strength," Blair said, "but it's nothing to worry about."

He said doctors advised Stevenson to rest at his Libertyville, Ill., estate for a few more weeks because he has "a very heavy schedule next month."

Gen. Lindbergh Receives Pulitzer Prize Award for Story Of His Life

NEW YORK — Brig. Gen. Charles A. Lindbergh, who electrified the world with his dramatic New York-to-Paris flight 27 years ago, won a Pulitzer Prize award Monday for his personal story of the flight and the boyhood dreams behind it.

Lindbergh was awarded the prize for his book "The Spirit Of St. Louis," a two-part story of his life through June, 1927. He reportedly has sold film rights to the book for 1 million dollars.

The 1954 Pulitzer Prize for drama was awarded to the Broadway play, "The Teahouse Of The August Moon," by John Patrick. The play, adapted from a novel by Vern Sneider, is a comedy about the American occupation of Okinawa after World War II.

No award was granted for fiction. Other awards in the field of letters were: For history, "A Stillness At Appomattox," by Bruce Catton; and for poetry, "The Waking," by Theodore Roethke.

Journalism Awards

Jim G. Lucas, of the Scripps-Howard Newspapers, won the Pulitzer journalism award for international reporting of his human interest stories about the Korean war and the prisoner exchange.

Other journalism awards were: For meritorious public service, Newsday, the Garden City, L. I.

Satchel Paige to Pitch for Harlem Globetrotter Nine

CHICAGO (AP)—Ol Leroy (Satchel) Paige, age unknown, is coming out of retirement for the umpteenth time to pitch for the baseball edition of the Harlem Globetrotters.

Satchel, who recently spurned a $20,000 contract with the Los Angeles Angels of the Pacific Coast League because "They don't pay enough," said "I'll have to take it easy, but I should be able to pitch two or three innings at a time, four or five times a week."

Abe Saperstein, owner of the Globetrotters, said Paige will manage and pitch for the rejuvenated Harlem barnstorming nine. He is expected to make between $25,000 and $30,000 a year.

Satchel, who won six and lost one for the pennant-winning Cleveland Indians in 1948, said, "Why should I pitch for less in organized ball than I can make with the Trotters?"

"I'm still one of the best in the game, and I'll prove it with the Globetrotters," the modest Satchel pronounced.

Satchel compiled a 28-31 won-lost record in five seasons with the Indians and St. Louis Browns.

Both Leagues the Same: Slaughter

By JIMMY BRESLIN
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (NEA)—You can see Yankee Stadium plainly from the 10th floor hotel room Enos Slaughter has in the Bronx section of New York City. The big park is four blocks away and every morning, when the 38-year-old outfielder gets out of bed, he looks at the Stadium from his window.

"This morning," he said, "I watched the ground crew taking the tarpaulin off the field. When I get down there in a few minutes for the game I'll tell them what a nice job they did."

It seems strange, at first, when a guy who has been around ball parks for 19 of his 38 years makes small talk about the Yankee Stadium and a ground crew.

But in Slaughter's case, it's very natural. The guy, you see, clings to the only thing he can be sure of these days—playing baseball itself. The rest of his life as a big leaguer—the morning jokes with his neighbors and the cup of coffee in the same spot on the way downtown to the park—they all went out of his life the day he was waived from the St. Louis Cardinals, whom he had given 16 years, to the New York Yankees.

"I'm all over that now," Slaughter said when reminded of it. "I left St. Louis. Left it for good and I'm a Yankee ballplayer now. I guess it came as a bad surprise at first, but I figured you got to forget about this sentiment business and go out and get your hits. That's all I'm ever gonna think about again. Them base hits, boy. I found nothin' else counts."

It takes considerably less than a person familiar with Enos and his ways to notice that a bitterness creeps into any talk about the Cardinals. He still hasn't gotten over it.

But Slaughter veers away from talking about it. He'd rather talk about his own playing as an American League outfielder.

"I don't see where there's too much of a difference up here," he says. "The pitcher, he still stands out there lookin' to get you out and I still get up there, sayin' that I'm just gonna get on base. It's the same."

Actually, there is no noticeable difference between the two leagues. In baseball arguments, you hear all sorts of things. You hear one league is a curve ball league and the other a fast ball league and one goes for the big inning and the other goes for one run and stuff like that. Well, I guess it makes good readin', but I can't tell the difference. They both play 'bout the same," Slaughter says.

You get a touch of Slaughter's intense will to win when you bring up the subject of his age. He's a little old for a ballplayer and when he was let go, Eddie Stanky stressed the idea of youth as the main thing. Wally Moon, a rookie, was the big reason he had been waived.

At this, Enos rumbles. "Let me tell you somethin'," he snapped. "There ain't no rookie gonna get me out of a job this year. No, sir, I was lookin' to win this year and I still am. I can win up here as good as I could win in St. Louis, I guess."

The guy who started in the St. Louis chain gang as a $75 month outfielder for Martinsville, Va., 19 years ago came to Yankee Stadium as no stranger. They still remember him in the 1942 World Series, going way up to take away a couple of home runs from Charlie Keller at the right field wall.

"I guess they do," Enos said. "But that was back in '42. I got to make 'em like me this year, too. That means I got to get on base, boy. None of this pullin' the ball all the time. Just meet the ball and get those hits."

"And I can understand what Casey Stengel is talkin' about. No mystery or double-talk to me. Man just wants you to play baseball. That's what I like."

Subdistrict Baseball Tourney Begins Here Friday; Schedule Is Rearranged

There were prospects of quite a passing right through Harrisburg and going on 20 miles farther up the line, and Mills Shoals, Grayville and Crossville would pass the correct situation lined out.

With the situation straightened out, this is the schedule of games for the Harrisburg subdistrict:

Friday afternoon there will be two games here—Equality vs. Harrisburg and Carrier Mills vs. Shawneetown—one at Taylor Field and the other on the town park diamond. Monday afternoon of next week Marion, which drew a bye, will play the Harrisburg-Equality winner and Golconda, at so a drawer of a bye, will play the Shawneetown-Carrier Mills winner on Tuesday afternoon. The winners of these last two tilts will play for the subdistrict championship a week from Thursday and the winner will play the champion of the Norris City district for the district title and the right to enter sectional competition.

Schedule Games
Actually, the IHSA declared, Equality, Marion, Carrier Mills, Shawneetown and Golconda should have been assigned to Harrisburg and Mill Shoals, Grayville, Crossville, Ridgway and McLeansboro. It was all set for publication in yesterday's Daily Register. However, when the IHSA phone call came, the schedule of games was quickly removed.

This, of course, makes sense, because under the first-announced arrangements, Marion, Carrier Mills and Golconda would have been passing right through Harrisburg, and going on 20 miles farther up the line, and Mills Shoals, Grayville and Crossville would pass the correct situation lined out.

The University of Illinois-sponsored spring football coaching clinic will get underway Friday at 9 a. m. and will come to an end with the annual spring intra-squad football game in Memorial Stadium at 3 p. m. Saturday. Preceding the football game will be the first annual Big Ten outdoor relays, scheduled to start at 1 p. m.

Read a story in the Sporting News about a minor league fan who saw his team lose, 30-2, and then kicked about the game to the business manager. "Do you want your money back?" asked the B. M. "Naw," replied the fan. "Just the tax, I came in on a pass."

John Romonosky, Harrisburg professional baseball player with San Diego, Calif., in the Pacific Coast league, racked up his first victory of the season last week. Romonosky went in against Seattle and held the Rainiers to five hits in seven and one-third innings, struck out three and allowed three bases on balls. He also cracked out a safe hit in four tries. His record is one victory and no losses.

Giants Silence Musial's Bat with Walks, But Ray Jablonski Hits 3-Run Homer

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer

Well, they slowed Stan Musial down to a walk. But after they gave "The Man" an intentional pass, the Cardinals demonstrated to the Giants that they have other forthright sluggers, for Ray Jablonski avenged the insult by slamming a three-run homer in Monday night's 8-2 victory that put St. Louis into a virtual first place tie with the idle Phillies.

It was only an incident in the sound thrashing that quick Vic Raschi administered to the Giants in the first time he had faced them since the last game of the 1951 World Series, when he also beat them, 4-3, as a Yankee. But it served to show that the Cardinals will have to be reckoned with in this mad scramble of a National League race—because even when Musial's bat is silent, there are other swingers who will sound off.

Monte Irvin Homers
Monday night it was first rookie Tom Alston, then Jablonski who contributed key hits. After Monte Irvin started the Giants off in front with a two-run homer in the first inning, Raschi looked as if he might be in for a rough evening.

But after a walk, Alvin Dark's error and two more walks forced in a Cardinal run, also in the first inning, Alston struck a two-run double to send starter Ruben Gomez home early. The Cards made it 4-2 off rookie Mario Picon in the third and took a 7-2 margin in the fourth when Giant strategy backfired.

In that frame, Red Schoendienst doubled and Musial, who had hit five homers in the Sunday doubleheader, was put on with an intentional walk. Jablonski followed with his fifth homer. The only two men ahead of him in the major league homer race are Musial and Hank Sauer of the Cubs with eight each.

Musial, who didn't have much of a chance, was at bat only once officially as the Giants walked him three times. He stole a base, however. Raschi, after his bad start, settled down to pitch a strong seven-hitter, walking only three and striking out four.

White Sox Beat A's
In the only other major league action, right hander Sandy Consuegra pitched the White Sox to a two-hit, 14-3 victory over the Athletics.

SO CLOSE—Bob Turley of the Orioles still scratches his head trying to figure out what happened when, with one Indian out in the ninth, he had a potential no-hit, no-run game suddenly turned into a two-hit, 2-1 defeat. (NEA)

XXXVI
Jim said, "I thought that must have been Stone. Had he really been out looking for Eddie?"

"Yes. And he was going again just as soon as the equipment was carried away. He put it in my car."

Jim said, "I don't remember a car being parked here the night of Eddie's death."

"I didn't leave it in front. On the side street at the head of the alley. Talk can start easily in a small town."

Jim Dunn said, "When Mark Richards told you of Eddie's death, that was the first you had heard of it?"

"Yes. And I thought of Ed Stone up in the tower room moving out the equipment. I—I felt danger. I couldn't let myself go then."

Jim understood the delay in that phone call now. She had to tell Stone of his son's death. He said, "Did Mayor Stone accuse your son of being Eddie's accomplice?"

"Not right away. He was too stunned at first. That came after my husband got here and told Ed of the note. Ed just couldn't think of anyone else but my boy who could have been the other monster. I'm sure he didn't even suspect Mansfield. Finally we got Dr. Pardon who gave Ed a sedative."

"But Ed's wild talk about our son worried my husband. And then the ball point pen was brought in. The pen with the initials G. W. He had seen it in our son's possession, and the place it was found seemed to put Tony at the scene of the crime. But he didn't tell me then he remembered our son—borrowing something from the dentist's office. There was enough without that."

"There was more?" Jim demanded. "There was the play your son had written, there was the fact your car was borrowed at the time of Drover's death, there was this ball point pen that was used to write Eddie's 'suicide' or confession note."

***

"That bottle of poison from my son's darkroom — my husband found it in the glove compartment of the car. I sent him to get rid of it. Alone with my thoughts and with the little sounds Ed Stone made in his troubled sleep, I heard the sounds downstairs."

"Mansfield hiding the money?" Jim asked.

"It was Mansfield, doing something to the pipes with those wrenches. I wanted to talk to him. I went down the back way, just as he returned to his kitchen. When I knocked he opened the door and he was holding the automatic. He spoke to me. He said, 'Your son has confessed and shot himself.'"

"I had never heard him speak before, except over the microphone thing. It startled me. Startled me so much that for a moment I didn't realize what he was saying, what the actual words meant. Everything was hazy for a while and then I saw he had put the wrenches on the floor and was holding a piece of paper. There were words on it, in my son's writing. The note's destroyed now, but I'll never forget the words. 'Sorry, Eddie. No more. I can't take any more.'"

"I asked Mansfield where Tony was. He said he'd show me, to come with him. He started to go out of the kitchen carrying the note and the automatic."

"And I knew suddenly he was lying. My son was not dead. But Mansfield expected him, and Mansfield knew he would be dead soon with that note nearby. I knew it because I recognized that gun as belonging to my boy."

"I don't know how it happened, but I tore the gun out of his hand, and I shot him. He fell down. I thought he was dead and started running back upstairs. I don't even remember throwing the gun away. But I remember getting the note and I remember burning it. Then my husband was holding me and I told him what I had done. He couldn't get the gun because you and the lieutenant were downstairs. We did manage to wake up Ed and tell him. He was doped, no more than half-conscious, but he agreed not to say anything till we heard where Tony was."

Jim nodded. "It was he who insisted on your trying to get in touch with your son again and he said, 'Sorry, Margaret, when we found your boy did have an alibi.'"

"He was sorry I did what he thought was his own chore."

Jim nodded. "As a guess, which we'll be able to corroborate with your son later, he was supposed to meet Eddie Stone—or Mansfield later. But he ran off to get married instead. That note, I'd say, showed he took the dentist's things for Eddie, but he wasn't going to do anything more. Eddie probably gave it to Mansfield."

"Why didn't you let Mansfield die? Why save him with your own blood?"

"Because you didn't deserve to be the one who killed Mansfield."

"You've come to arrest me?"

"Not me," Jim said. "There'll be questions for you to answer later, but they won't be too hard on you."

Margaret Hughes kissed him. "Thank you, Mr. Dunn."

Nancy and Jim returned to the car. Her lips moved as if they were still stiff. "It was a choice, wasn't it, Jim? You had to do it for Mrs. Hughes, for her son and for her husband."

"That's better," Jim said. "Do you think I deserve another chance? I won't be late for our wedding."

The stiffness left her body and let her lean against Jim Dunn, find the shelter of his arms.

Costumed Thieves Steal $185,000 At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS — Detectives worked around the clock in relays today in a hunt for five costumed thieves who overpowered a supermarket watchman and stole $185,000 in the area's biggest burglary on record.

Officials said the fantastic burglary at the huge Schwegmann Brothers Market early Monday evidently was the work of professionals who left few clues but made a bold, gaudy show of their three-hour safecracking job.

A stolen, cream-colored Oldsmobile the thieves used to haul away their loot including $85,000 in cash and the rest in jewelry and merchandise was later found abandoned, police said.

In the abandoned car police found a .38 caliber pistol the thieves took from watchman Roy Centanni, 50, whom they held bound, gagged and blindfolded while they cut into the safe with a torch.

The men donned Mardi Gras costumes and worked boldly, investigators said, using shoppers' carts to wheel their loot from the block-long store on the Airline Highway six miles from downtown New Orleans.

While blasting open the eight-foot safe they scrupulously deposited nickels in a coin machine for soda pop instead of smashing its simple mechanism.

Margaret Truman Picks Birthday Card For Her Father

NEW YORK — Margaret Truman has picked out a birthday card for her father, former President Harry S. Truman, who will be 70 next Saturday.

The card is captioned "You've been investigated" and depicts a senator, flanked by two investigators. The senator apparently is making a telecast detailing the results of the investigator's sleuthing.

Inside, the card says: "You're in the clear — you've made it through another year—happy birthday!"
